BRITAIN AND GREECE SPLIT OVER MINISTERIAL KILLINGS

FURTHER EXECUTIONS EXPECTED

Diplomatic Relations Broken Off Today by Great Britain

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE) ATHENS, Nov. 29.—Diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Greece were broken off today when the British minister, F. O. Lindley, obtained his passports at the Greek foreign office and departed for home because of the execution of five former Greek ministers against the wishes of England.

It is reported that Prince Andrew and other former ministers in the government under the Constantine regime will be placed on trial before the military tribunal created by the Greek revolutionary committee.

Further executions are expected.

FAMILIES GET BODIES

The first secretary of the British legation and C. H. Bentinck, British member of the financial control committee, are remaining here. The bodies of the six former officials shot to death yesterday by a firing squad have been turned over to their families. They were: Premier Protopapadakis, former Minister of Interior Stratos, former Foreign Minister Baltazis, former War Minister Thoklis, and General Hadjiamanis, commander in chief of the Greek army in Asia Minor.

All took their fate bravely. Hadjiamanis wept when the verdict was read degrading him, but he quickly recovered his composure.

PRISONERS WERE HAGGARD

When Baltazis learned that his sentence was death by shooting he removed his monocle, drew a silk handkerchief from his pocket and nervously polished the glass. Goumaris, one of the most influential of modern Greek statesmen, next to Eleutherios Venizelos, sat huddled up in his seat, wearing his overcoat collar turned up. He remained impassive throughout the proceedings.

All the prisoners were pale and haggard from the sessions of the court had been long and arduous. They got practically no sleep on Monday night.

E. C. Caffery, first secretary of the American legation, attempted to intercede for the lives of the condemned men. He was rebuffed by the cabinet headed by Premier Goumaris. Mr. Caffery was informed that the proceedings had been undertaken by the Greek revolutionary committee which had created and invested the military tribunal with power. The cabinet members said they were virtually powerless.

Gary Machinist Has Diary To Show When He Was Chased From Home.

Joseph Showalterbaugh, a Gary machinist, evidently keeps a diary. Otherwise it would have been difficult for him to recall so easily the different occasions on which his wife had driven him from home.

He sets forth the date and in his complaint for divorce which was filed this morning by Attorney John M. Stinson in the Hammond Superior court.

He and Hulda were married October 13, 1901, and the last time he was driven out of the house was last April 6. He says his wife had abused him and threatened to kill him. Five times he was chased away from the premises. The last time he gave up and decided to stay away.

Mrs. Showalterbaugh is living at 772 Virginia st. Gary. Her husband asks for the custody of their 12-year-old son.

The vote was 208 to 184, a majority of 24 for the bill.

BY A. O. HAYWARD
(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE) WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Passage by the house of the administration's ship subsidy bill was virtually assured in an afternoon session of the house, by a vote of 215 to 172, defeated a motion by the opposition to send the measure back to the merchant marine committee with instructions to strike out the indirect subsidy provisions.

The motion to re-commit a move to defeat the bill was made by Representative Rufus Hardy, Democrat, of Texas.

A final roll call on the bill was then ordered.

MURRAY TURNER WINS DEBATE ON AMALGAMATION

The wealth of argument in favor of amalgamation and the death of reasons against it was never better exemplified than yesterday when A. Murray Turner, president of the First National bank, and Carl Nelson, proprietor of the Nelson Pharmacy, debated the important issue at the weekly Kiwanis club luncheon.

Both debaters are members of the club and were assigned the task by President George Geyer. What Mr. Nelson had to say does not necessarily express his private views.

Mr. Nelson made the most of the fact that he had to work with, but was forced to admit that the bankers, the business men and the lawyers had every reason to favor amalgamation. He was opposed to it, he said in effect, because of the large proportion of foreign-born residents of East Chicago and Indiana Harbor. He declared that while many of them made excellent citizens and were a credit to the community there was an element which would inject into the city government ideas which were in conflict with the ideals of the Pilgrim fathers.

Mr. Turner took a broad, far-sighted and progressive view of the situation.

He discussed the issue from the economic standpoint and exhibited a map showing how Hammond, East Chicago, Indiana Harbor and Whiting are geographically one community and rehearsed the many advantages of amalgamation.

Hammond and East Chicago have identical problems to solve, he said, and they can progress faster and function with more economy if they are amalgamated.

At the conclusion of the debate, Attorney W. J. McAlleer suggested that the Kiwanis club invite the Rotary club, the East Chicago Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations of the two cities to hold a public debate in the near future.

"I'm not much of a debater, but I can debate fifty men like Nelson on the question of amalgamation," said Mr. McAlleer, good-naturedly. "I believe it is an excellent thing to debate this question at this time. I am in favor of amalgamation and I know of fifty good reasons why Hammond, East Chicago and Whiting should be amalgamated. Why do you know that East Chicago's tax levy today is the lowest of any of these three cities and that East Chicago industries pay out to employ a million dollars more every month than Gary?"

ROTARY EXTENDS GOOD WISHES

Recognizing the great good result from the organization of High Y Clubs to high schools of the State of Indiana, under the direction of the Young Men's Christian Association, and the profound inspiration that will result to the movement from the Conference of State High Y Clubs to be held at Marion, Indiana, on the 1st day of December, 1922, the Hammond Rotary Club expresses its unqualified endorsement of the movement, and through twenty-three students of the Hammond Industrial High School, whom it is sending to attend the conference, it extends to the officers in charge of the conference, and all those in attendance its good wishes and its hope for the continued success of this widespread and effective effort to improve the moral and physical well-being of the young men in the high schools of the state.

WILL HE DO IT? WELL, HE'LL TRY

Hammond's Own Magician to Attempt Escape From Nailed Box.

Will he do it?

That is the paramount question that Lawrence Hoffman's stunt at the Phoenix theater this Friday is being discussed.

Hoffman, who is Hammond's own magician, will be nailed in an air tight dry goods box on the stage of the Parthenon at three performances Friday, afternoon and night, and will attempt to escape in fifteen seconds, leaving the box securely nailed.

The box will be on exhibit in the lobby before each performance and the public is invited to examine it carefully. People will be invited to go on the stage to make a thorough examination of the box and assist in the nailing.

After the box has been nailed to the satisfaction of everyone it will be tightly roped.

Hoffman, of course, will squeeze into the box in full view of the audience. The volunteer committee from the audience will stand in a circle around the box, a cloth will be spread over it, and presto! Hoffman will appear—MAYBE. That's the uncertain part of the trick.

Hoffman MAY escape and MAY not. If he is unable to escape stage hands will cut the ropes and pry the boards loose at the end of two minutes. Dr. Young, Dr. Childlaw and Dr. Oberlin have agreed that it will be dangerous for Hoffman to remain in an air tight box longer than two minutes and that it will be fatal for him not to escape within four minutes. They declare that he would become unconscious from suffocation in three minutes and would strangle to death in four.

63 TAKEN IN RAID AT CAPITAL

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE)

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Nov. 29.—Fifty-three men and ten women, taken in police raids during the night and believed to be members of "high-jacking" gangs, were being quizzed by detectives here today in an effort to unravel two mysterious murders of the past six months in Indianapolis.

The raids were being continued today under personal direction of Mayor Samuel Lewis Shank, who was accused at the failure of the police department to solve the murders of William Whitehead, a patrolman last July, and of George Orme, wealthy clubman and farmer, who was shot to death, twelve days ago.

Detectives are working on the theory that both men met death at the hands of "high-jackers." All the prisoners are being held incommunicado under high bonds, on vagrancy charges.

SUIT HINGES ON PAYMENT OF BUS FARE

If a passenger, who has not yet paid his fare, is injured while riding in a bus can the bus owner be made to pay damages to the passenger?

That is a question which will be discussed in the Hammond Superior court when the suit of Fred Johns against Charlie White is tried. Johns today filed suit for $500 damages against White, who owns one of the buses which operate between Hammond and Sixty-third st., Chicago. He boarded the bus on August 10 to ride to Hammond. At Ninety-sixth st. and Ewing ave. the bus collided with a street car and Johns received some injuries about his head.

He says that he had not paid his fare as it was the bus driver's custom to collect at the destination. However, he fully intended to pay, he says.

WIFE SICK, RUNS AWAY WITH ANOTHER

Edward Netz Deserts Wife at Hospital and Flees With Another Love

Edward Netz leaned over the sick bed of his wife at St. Margaret's hospital, in Hammond, placed in one hand of the ailing spouse a frail bunch of flowers and in the other twenty cents, kissed the fevered brow of the woman, pledged his undying devotion and crept out of the room, and later, out of town with another man's wife.

The "other man's wife" is Mrs. Helen Thompson, aged 19 years, who with her husband roomed at the Nets home in Michigan avenue.

Thompson has suspected a growing intimacy between his wife and Netz. It had come to his attention several weeks ago when he found both out when he returned early from work one day. But Mrs. Thompson smoothed that over and all went well into the other afternoon.

Thompson received a telephone call from Chicago. It was from his wife and urged him to come to her assistance at once. She would await him at a drug store at the corner of Cottage Grove and 63rd street. Mrs. Netz was then at the hospital where she had been removed several days previous to undergo an operation. Thompson closed the house and rushed to Chicago in response to the call from his wife.

He failed to find her at the appointed place. In fact he failed to find her at all and hasn't found her yet.

When he returned to his Michigan avenue home he discovered the wife had fled him to Chicago and during his absence had returned with Netz. Together they had gathered their belongings and fled.

Mrs. Netz says she has been left penniless. She has sworn out a warrant charging her husband with non-support and a statutory complaint based on his association with Mrs. Thompson.

Local police have invoked the aid of Chicago authorities to find the pair.

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 29.—Prof. John P. Tiernan will not join his "wife of a day" at her Iowa home for a Thanksgiving day dinner. Neither will he answer any telephone calls from her for fear of further complicating the situation. "I have had no conversation or communication with Mrs. Brimmer in reference to the stories from Marshalltown, Iowa, to the effect that he had conversed over the long distance telephone with Mrs. Brimmer, published in a Chicago paper, have been interpolated and garbled," he said.

Joseph E. Smith, building contractor of Gary, and Wm. Dalton, president of the Dalton Coal Co. at Gary, who were summoned by the state to testify in the case as owners of cars which Jakush had disposed of, were dismissed to appear in the East Chicago city court next Wednesday.

An effort is being made by the counsel of the defendant to establish one specific charge against Jakush and dispose of the case in the East Chicago city court. With the many counts now against the defendant this seems almost impossible and it is more than probable that Jakush will be bound over to the Lake Criminal court.

GRATEFUL FOR PROHIBITION ABOVE ALL

Miss Evangeline Booth Pens Thanksgiving Tribute

EDITORS NOTE—America has reason to be thankful for prohibition than for any other one thing. Miss Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States asserted today in response to a request from International News Service that she pen a Thanksgiving Day message, her message is as follows:

BY EVANGELINE BOOTH
(Written Especially for I. N. S.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Were I called upon to name one thing which this year as a nation have great cause for Thanksgiving I should unhesitatingly name prohibition.

Thousands of turkeys, tons of cranberry sauce, and dozens of other seasonal goodies will be spread before the happy wives and children of America purchased by money which in former years went to fatten the saloon keeper, the brewer and the distiller. No more will drunkenness and carousal in the mans mar the holy influence of a nation's finest holiday.

Of all the nations America was first to set aside a day for the unique purpose of expressing gratitude to God.

There is a fine sentiment in the ideal of Thanksgiving Day in that it typifies an unselfish gratitude. There is no individual in all the vast domains of beautiful America so poor in spirit that he or she cannot find something for which to be grateful.

But the end is not yet. When the world is through with its killing of men, when the sun of the War God has forever set, when prohibition has flooded over our frontiers to cover the earth with its blessed sanctity and wives no longer weep for drunken husbands, when children hide from bearded fathers, when peace has spread benevolent wings over all the nations and the brotherhood of men has really come to pass, then will America lead the world to a greater Thanksgiving Day.

KILLS MOTHER-IN-LAW THEN SHOOTS SELF

Crazed By Drink Indiana Man Commits Shocking Double Crime.

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE)

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 29.—Crazed by drink and remorse at heavy gambling losses Charles E. Manly, Sr., shot and killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Elia Murphy, 70, at her home here late yesterday evening. His wife, Mrs. Gertrude Manly, says when she told her husband to wash his face he replied:

"No use the next time I am washed will be in an undertaker's tub." He then fired a double ventricle shot into the forehead of his mother-in-law, but before the officers reached the house Manly broke down a door and shot the dead woman in spite of the presence and efforts of her husband. Nicholas Manly then turned the gun on himself and died almost instantly.

BLOOD SMEARED COUPE MYSTERY

West Hammond police are today trying to clear up the mystery which surrounds the abandoning of a blood smeared Paige coupe which was found this morning at Property Corner, west of West Hammond, on 14th street.

The machine which had apparently been through a wreck in which it was seriously injured was left standing in the middle of the road. The fenders were smashed. The glass was broken from the windows. The steering wheel was covered with blood. Blood smeared over the fenders and side of the car.

Chief Nitze was notified that the machine was at Property Corner. He had it towed to the police station. It had evidently stood in the road for several hours for the radiator was frozen.

Inspection of the license numbers showed that they were issued to Victor J. Lucas of Maywood, Ill. But they were issued for an Elgin car of the same make. This leads to the belief that the Paige was stolen and efforts were being made today to get into touch with the Maywood man.

At noon the police had not been able to reach Lucas. Neither had they gained any information regarding an accident in which the Paige might have been concerned.
